FEATURE TOPIC:

Factory Automation meets...

Section Meeting –
Wednesday, January 17, 2018
⇒ All invited, including non-members! ⇐

Remember you will get your Professional Development Hour for your PE requirement

Control systems increasingly use fieldbus networks as smart devices spread.

Promises to significantly reduce costs for operating expenditures

How will various automation companies approach the market with these and other effects of IoT?

Unused data from low-level devices will become available for analysis and control.

Security looms as an important issue because each connected device represents a target for unauthorized access.

September Speaker:

Tim McCain, Information Software Regional Manager, Rockwell Automation

Tim is responsible for the FactoryTalk Software Portfolio and works with Rockwell Automation’s ecosystem of field sales, professional services, distribution, and system integrator partners to bring information solutions to customers. In his 16-year career with Rockwell Automation, Tim has held a variety of roles with increasing responsibilities including Applications Engineer, Consultant, and Solutions Architect.
